

It's been a disappointing week weatherwise for our Y5 with all their outdoor activities. However, they've had a great time in spite of the rain. For pupils who stayed at school, the most popular activity was the Geo rocking – painting rocks and then hiding and finding other people's at Biddulph Grange Park. The residential at Boreatton Park, our first visit, proved a resounding success with pupils loving the centre, the accommodation, the food and all the activities. The days were very well structured, the staff were excellent and very helpful.

We hope that the photos the children brought home on Tuesday will make much-appreciated Christmas presents. Everyone looked very smart. Some of the children had clearly spent a long time on hair preparation!!

Next week we are running anti-bullying activities as part of Anti-bullying Week. We would like to help raise awareness of bullying by supporting the odd socks day on Tuesday, so please encourage your children not to wear matching socks – the brighter the colours, the better!

Have a good weekend.
